Consulting-Specifying Engineer Announces the 2014 Product of the Year Winners

OAK BROOK, Ill., September 15, 2014 — Consulting-Specifying Engineer is pleased to announce the 2014 Product of the Year winners. These 31 individual products—selected by the readers of Consulting-Specifying Engineer—were culled from a field of more than 100 entries. Products were released in the 2013 calendar year, nominated in February 2014, and voted on by readers starting in April 2014.

Winners of the 10th annual Consulting-Specifying Engineer Product of the Year awards included products for critical power applications, top-notch fire and life safety technologies, and a host of cutting-edge energy-efficient products. All winners appear in the September 2014 issue of Consulting-Specifying Engineer. Full information about each of the winners is at www.csemag.com/POY

Product categories include apps for engineers; electrical distribution and systems; emergency, on-site, and standby power; fire, life safety, and suppression systems; HVAC/R; lighting controls and sensors; lighting fixtures; mass notification, emergency communication; software: design, modeling, monitoring; and test instruments, meters and data loggers.

The 2014 MVP (most valuable product) was awarded to Xylem's Bell and Gossett Series e-1510 single-stage end-suction centrifugal pumps. This product received the most reader votes of all the products.
